THE OPPENHEIMER FAMILY.

An essay of a

GENEALOGY

after the late

ISRAEL OPPENHEIMER

of Gronau/Hannover (1756 -1813)

drawn up by

KURT STERN

d. 1995

Preface.

Being one of the decendants of the late Israel Oppenheimer (my Great-grand-grandfather) I have been incited to put up a genealogy of his offspring by a life-history of his son, the late Hirsch Oppenheimer, written in 1922 by Hirsch's last surviving son Louis. This Louis Oppenheimer had told us, his grand-nephews and grandnieces, about his forfathers, when we had been in 1919 at Hannover for the celebration of our grandmother's 70th birthday and when he took us all out for an additional party on one of the following days. I remember that, in the course of his telling us about the ancient Oppenheimer-family, I had asked him to write the whole story and more of it down and to give it to us as a souvenir. He agreed and, after he had made further investigations, finished it in 1922.

This story, its original-copy still in my hands, has been translated later from German into English by my grandcousin Edith Ansbacher and came occasionally into my possession. As I had added the German original copy to this genealogy in its first (German) drawing-up I use now, without her knowing it but convinced of her consent, Edith Ansbacher's English translation of it as an introduction to this genealogy. Upon suggestions by some family members I translated and made it up now in English, as they, rightly, thought that it would be more interesting and therefore more useful for most of the younger generation of the family, whose language is no more German and who will, more or less, all understand English, but would never read it in German. I am glad for their suggestion in this respect and want to express herewith my thanks to them. I further thank them and all my various other cousins and grandcousins etc., who assisted me in gathering material and dates, for their help.

The drawing-up of this genealogy after Israel Oppenheimer of blessed memory had been begun by me at a time when nothing had been known to me about his forfathers and when I only had known of his elder brothers. Those two brothers had, when the German Jews took, instead of their former Jewish names, German family names, taken for themselves the names of Steinberg and Rothschild resp., while Israel accepted, like his father, the name Oppenheimer. - To give the genealogy a certain order and to guaranty a numerical continuation of those three branches and their offspring, I gave each of the brothers a serial-number, the eldest-one, Steinberg, the number one, the second, Rothschild, the number two and the third, MI Israel Oppenheimer the number three. Only when I had almost arrived at the present state of this genealogy did I get the names of Israel Oppenheimer's late parents and parents-in-law and, as I did not want to alter all formerly given serial-numbers and thus to begin my work anew, I gave them, therefore, instead of numbers the marks "A" and "B" resp. and I intend, to mark accordingly their forfathers, should I succeed to find their names and particulars still at a later date, by the letters "AA" and "BB" and "AAA" and "BBB" resp. etc., while side-lines will then get in addition to those letter-marks the resp. serial-numbers as in the case of Israel Oppenheimer's descendants.

In this ~~genealogy~~ genealogy all descendants of Israel Oppenheimer, who himself got the numerical mark "3", have therefore their resp. numerical marks begun by the number 3, followed, according to the succession of their births, in the second place thereafter by the number "1" etc., the first generation after Israel O. thus being marked by two numbers, the second generation by three numbers etc., meaning that f.i. the second child of his fourth son got the number 342 and the fourth child of the second child of that number 342 got the mark 34224 etc. Through such marks every person can, without difficulties, always be traced back in his belonging to what branch of the family and, vice versa, every branch can easily be traced in its continuation and development; further it can be found if in any one branch there are descendants or not, while always new sidelines can be added without the continuance of the numerical marks being disturbed.

Every descendant is, up to his marriage, registered only, with his number appearing before his particulars, as a child of his parents and under their resp. heading, but gets, in addition to this, his own rubric with full numerical marks when he is married - his particulars and those of his wife (or husband) and their offspring appearing under this heading in the frame of the next, his, generation and together with his (or her) brothers and sisters. In the case of feminine descendants the name and particulars of their husband appears then in the first column, his family-name underlined, while the name of his wife, who continues the roots of the Oppenheimer-family, appears in the second column with full particulars, her first name being underlined. --- The leafs are arranged according to their numerical marks of the families and additional leafs can be arranged accordingly.

The letter "b" before a ~~date~~ date means "born" at that date, the letter "d" marks the date of the death of that person, while "m" means the date of the marriage (only in the second columns), the place of those births, deaths and marriages following immediately and without further indications after those dates.

All the registrations have been made after examinations undertaken as conscientiously as possible and upon deliveries and personal informations, and only in very few instances are they based upon official documents or their copies. I also tried, not always with success, to enter the first names in the way of their official registration, which may differ for the same name in different countries; Hebrew names have been transferred in the way used generally here in Israel. For all these reasons I can claim no absolute exactness for this genealogy nor its being based strictly upon scientific research. To my regret I neither can claim that it is complete in all its parts (f.i. I did not succeed in tracing the whole branches of Hirsch Oppenheimer's brothers and sisters nor much of Adele Elias', his daughter's, descendants and others) and I shall be grateful for informations about missing persons or missing dates as well as for informations about further developments and changes.

The Life-History of our Father Hirsch Oppenheimer.

(written in May 1922 by the late Louis Oppenheimer of Hannover and translated from the German original by Edith Ansbacher of London)

Our grandfather, Israel Oppenheimer, has been living, since I don't know when, in Gronau on the Leine. He was married to Zipporah, née Samson. In January of 1813 he died, as a result of an accident, which happened, when he was crossing the Leine when it was frozen over and covered with snow. He is buried in Rössing. He left six children, namely:

Levy, born in 1803 (1801)
Samson, " " 1803
Hirsch, " on July, 8th, 1805
Hertz, " in 1808
Bernhard " 1810
Israel " " 1813

One daughter, Röschen, born in 1818 was the child ^{from}/mother's second marriage.

I have before me a protocol of the Court of Law (Friedensgericht) in Gronau, which then belonged to the Kingdom of Westphalia under Hyronimus Napoleon. It is dated 25th June 1813, and according to it our grandmother took over the trusteeship, assisted by a counter-trustee, Michael Freudenthal from Bodenfelde, and a friend of the family, Municipalrat Tenne from Gronau. At that time, the king just mentioned issued an edict: that all Jews living in his kingdom should choose German names instead of being called by their father's name, such as Jacob-son, Isaak-son and so on. So, our father, chose the name of Oppenheimer, while his brothers called themselves Rothschild and Steinberg.

Several years later our grandmother ^{was}/married again, to Mendel Elb, and shortly after the wedding our father was sent to Wunstorf to a cheder (school), where he stayed until his Barmitzwah. He was to celebrate this religious ceremony at home. According to a story which he himself often related his stepfather on this occasion gave him a present of one Thaler, to start his business.

So, on Sunday morning, he walked to Hannover, invested his small fortune of one Thaler in small items, which he then sold in the neighbourhood of Gronau, where he knew everybody and everybody knew him. Within a few days he had earned a Thaler or more with his one Thaler.

As he incurred no great expenses on his wanderings - his customers and acquaintances were pleased to let him spend his nights in their houses - he could in this way constantly enlarge his capital and could soon buy larger and better stock and earn even more.

In spite of all the difficulties he encountered while making a living in

9th addition and correction to The Oppenheimer-Family-Tree

Before listing previous non-correct entries to the "Tree" for correction and new additions to it I want to draw your attention to the fact, that my third-degree-cousin Arnold Oppenheimer (number 33823 in the "Tree") who from the start of my work in this matter has been cooperating with me in the closest manner and has made valuable research in its respect, has recently got new material that casts doubt on previously stated facts, as follows:

1.) The founder of our genealogy, the late Israel Oppenheimer (No. 3 in the "Tree" is mentioned by his grandson Louis Oppenheimer in his "Life History of Hirsch Oppenheimer" (between my own "Preface" and the beginning of the actually drawn-up "Tree") as having accidentally died while crossing on horse-back the frozen Leine-river, and similarly also by me within the "Tree" (under serial no. A 3 as having "drowned". Though both these statements are based on tales and writings of the deceased's grandson Louis and the widow of another grandson (Sammi) resp., both close relatives of Israel s.A., who knew the facts from first-hand-reports and are certainly reliable sources, Arnold Oppenheimer has now been furnished with an official document (copy attached herewith), according to which Israel seems to have died "at his home" in his bed. Without doubt there seem to be contradictions between the tales of Louis and Sophie on the one side and the official document, though there remains the possibility and even probability that both versions are correct and that Israel really broke through the ice of the frozen river together with his horse and fell into the water, but had been rescued and brought home, where he died as the results of that accident shortly afterward in his bed. There is not the least hint about the cause of his death in the document (no illness nor accident mentioned), nor did Louis Oppenheimer say, that he has been "drowned", but states that he died "as the result of an accident"-and my own remark was made upon my hearing ~~xxx~~ as a child the tale by my grandmother Sophie, who perhaps did not make a difference between "Drowned" and "result of broken through ice and falling into cold water" or my own misunderstanding or misinterpretation of that tale (I was still a child then). Though the result of both versions remains the fact of death and though there is no great importance ~~xxxxxx~~ of the cause of that fact in connection with the "Family-Tree" I felt the obligation to report it here.

2.) Concerning the family-names adopted by Israel's two brothers- Steinberg and Rothschild resp.- (Ser. No. A 1 and A 2 of the "Tree")-there are, as per Arnold's newest research, not the least traces in any official register nor document that two of Levi and Röschen Oppenheimer's sons have accepted these family-names instead of like their father and brother Israel- the family-name "Oppenheimer", neither could Arnold nor his local correspondents find traces of those two brothers or any offspring of them in the first instant and until now did not further research for such.

And now, ~~after~~ after this report, please note the additions and corrections of the "Tree" as stated in the attached pages; but first note please:

In the first column "Remarks" the numbers mean as follows:

- 1.) a new page must be added (in the right place, according to its number), but brothers and sisters appear with their newly founded family on the same page, leaving enough space for later additions of the families of yet unmarried brothers and sisters.
- 2.) family-name of females after their marriage is to be corrected in the "scheme"
- 3.) new-born children must be registered (at their right places besides the parent!) in the "scheme" all entries are to be made according to their (underlined) expressly stated numbers; in the first column appear the names of the husbands (family-name underlined) in the second column the names of the wives, in the third of the children all with their dates. The name of Hirsch Oppenheimer's blood-related descendant who carries the genealogy further on, is to underline, according to case in 1st or 2nd column. (Females only their first names, not the former family-name but the new one as stated before.
